2009/01 EITI Conference Special

EITI International Secretariat Oslo, 16 January 2009

Dear friends and partners of the EITI,

Happy New Year and Welcome to this Conference Special!

2008 proved to be a dramatic year for commodity and financial markets. It is too early to draw clear conclusions, but the transparency agenda appears to be in the ascendency. For the EITI, it has been a year of expansion and implementation. The EITI is now being implemented in more and more countries with more and more supporters are coming onboard. The EITI Global Conference in Doha will be an important milestone in the initiative's development.

As expected, the response from invited speakers has been strong: more than fifty leaders from stakeholders from around the world will be speaking on issues ranging from the role of the EITI in a volatile world, to the road to EITI Validation. This issue of the EITI newsletter provides the latest information about the Conference and practical instructions on what you need to do in order to come to Doha and be a part of shaping the future of the EITI.

Best wishes,

Peter Eigen

EITI Global Conference
Establishing Resource Transparency

Doha, Qatar 16-18 February 2009

EITI Global Conference

The EITI Global Conference is the highest governing body of the EITI. It provides an opportunity for all EITI stakeholders and the International Board to take stock of the benefits and progress of the EITI, find common solutions for tackling challenges and chart next steps for supporting and advancing good governance in the extractive industries.

Hosted by the Government of Qatar, the 4th EITI Global Conference will gather 500 leaders and officials from government, industry and institutions to discuss the future of resource transparency and good governance in the extractive industries.

The speakers reflect the strong country ownership of the EITI and the increasing role of emerging economies. The Conference aims to improve implementation and validation by building on experiences gained around the world, and to promote the EITI as the global standard for transparent resource revenue management.

EITI Chairman's Awards

At the EITI Global Conference in Doha next month, the EITI will be presenting the EITI Chairman's Awards. They will be awarded to partners who have shown leadership in establishing resource transparency since the last EITI Conference. These informal awards will be handed out during the EITI Chairman's Dinner on Tuesday, 16 February. There will be awards within four categories.

1. EITI Implementing Country Award
2. EITI Supporting Civil Society Organisation Award
3. EITI Supporting Company Award
4. EITI Awareness Campaign Award

All of the EITI's stakeholders are invited to provide nominations. When nominating a candidate, include a brief citation. Kindly refrain from nominating your own organisation, company or country.

Nominations must be sent to the Secretariat (irorvik@eitransparency.org) by 10 February.

How to register for Doha

The last couple of weeks have seen a flurry of registrations, with governments and companies rushing to secure their participation. Everyone participating in the Conference will have to register at our Conference webpage, www.eitidoha.org. Registration is free of charge and only takes a couple of minutes. You may register as a group, and it is also possible to register for media accreditation. Unless you register we

EITI Publications to be launched in Doha

At the Conference in Doha, a number of publications will be launched:

EITI Progress Report 2007-2009

This report highlights achievements and key developments in the EITI over the last two years. It has been created by the EITI Secretariat with contributions from EITI stakeholders.

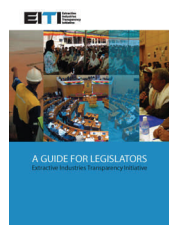

Talking Transparency

This guide for communicating the EITI is a practical tool for how implementers of the EITI can set up an effective communications programme. It shares best practices from the EITI countries.

Advancing the EITI in the Mining Sector

The publication includes contributions from industry, civil society and practitioners. Ten case studies also illustrate many of the most salient issues in implementing the EITI in the mining sector.

A Guide for Legislators

This guide explains how parliamentarians can play a role in the implementation of the EITI and in achieving resource revenue transparency. It has been produced by NDI in collaboration with the EITI International Secretariat and the Revenue Watch Institute.

For further information about the publications contact Communications Manager Anders Kråkenes (akrakenes@eitransparency.org).

NEWS

Gabonese civil society campaigners released

Transparency France report that the five Civil Society representatives that were detained in Gabon since 31 December have been released late on 12 January. In a statement, EITI Chairman Peter Eigen said: "I was glad to receive the reports about the release of the civil society representatives, including PWYP Coordinator Marc Ona. The EITI institutions continue to collaborate with the Government of Gabon and the other national stakeholders, to jointly maintain the progress made with implementing the EITI."

For information about EITI in Gabon, contact Tim Bittiger (tbittiger@eitransparency.org)

Norway has applied for candidature

Norway submitted its application to become an EITI Candidate country on 18 December 2008. Subject to EITI Board approval, Norway will be the first OECD economy to become an EITI implementing country.

A group of stakeholders from Norwegian companies, government and civil society has been formed, and has agreed a workplan for how Norway will implement the EITI. In its candidate application letter to the EITI Chairman, the Norwegian Ministry of Oil and Energy explains that Norway is in the process of drafting regulation that mandates EITI reporting. "According to the draft regulation, companies and government agencies will start to report by August 2009." The Norwegian application follows its announcement to implement the EITI made in the autumn of 2007.

Terje Riis-Johansen, Norwegian Minister of Oil and Energy, said: "By now moving from supporting the EITI to also implementing it, we hope to contribute towards the EITI becoming the globally recognised transparency standard for the extractive industry."

First Year of 'Berlin Seminars'

The first year of EITI Seminars has come to an end, with the successful five-day training of Francophone African and Spanish-speaking EITI stakeholders in Berlin, 15-19 December 2008. In the course of 2008, the Secretariat and the organisers, InWEnt, have trained 75 representatives from all EITI implementing countries. Given the success of the seminars, the German government has announced it will continue funding until 2011. The EITI MDTF managed by the World Bank is providing co-funding. The 'Berlin Seminars' are the principle platform for training and exchange for EITI practitioners. Future events will also be organised in regions where the EITI is implemented.
