To Chair of the EITI Board Clare Short

Re: Application for EITI candidate status to be granted to the Republic of Tajikistan

Dear Ms Short,

Allow me to take this opportunity to assure you of my profound respect and gratitude for your support and assistance in the process of introducing the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) in Tajikistan, which will enable the country's wealth of natural resources to be used for its sustainable economic growth and to reduce poverty.

I should like to bring to the notice of the EITI Board that the Government of Tajikistan has adopted the 31 August 2012 packet of documents, "On the signing up of the Republic of Tajikistan to the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative", has identified a government champion of EITI introduction and envisages the creation of a multilateral EITI Council and the drawing up of a work plan for 2012-2014.

The composition of the EITI Council of Tajikistan has recently been decided and confirmed, a chair of the EITI Council has been appointed, three Council sessions have been held and a work plan for EITI implementation in Tajikistan has been drawn up.

At the same time, on 12-14 November 2012, as part of the measures being taken to reform the country's mining sector, the Government of Tajikistan, represented by the Finance Ministry of the Republic of Tajikistan, held a conference in partnership with the World Bank, the Open Society Institute and the German Agency for International Cooperation (GIZ) on promoting the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) in Tajikistan for representatives of state structures, extractive industry companies and civil society organizations.

During the conference, Deputy Finance Minister of the Republic of Tajikistan Sh.K. Sakhibov delivered the official announcement on behalf of the Government of the Republic of Tajikistan on the country's signing up to the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative. Bearing in mind that Tajikistan has met all the preliminary conditions for obtaining EITI candidate statues, we are forwarding for your consideration the application from the Republic of Tajikistan to sign up to the EITI. The request contains a packet of documents in Russian.

The Finance Ministry of Tajikistan as the authorized authority of the Government of Tajikistan asks that the possibility of granting Tajikistan EITI candidate status be considered at the February session of the EITI Board.

This will give us the opportunity to mention this move in the Message of the President of Tajikistan to the country's Parliament in April 2013, together with specific instructions to all interested parties to ensure the EITI's successful introduction in Tajikistan.

Please accept assurances of my highest regard,

Dear Mr. Akilov:

Aide Memoire – Mining Secto Extractive Industries T

We are pleased to enclos on the mining sector and a st Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) in Tajikistan, held on July, 12 2011 in Dushanbe.

The seminar was organized and conducted as a result of close cooperation among three parties - the World Bank, the Government of Tajikistan, represented by the State Committee on Investments and State Property Management and the Ministry of Finance, and the Open Society Institute.

The Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative is the widely-accepted international framework for strengthening transparency and accountability in the extractives sector. It is unique in terms of bringing together representatives from three different groups - private sector, civil society and Government - to work together, through the verification and full publication of company payments and government revenues from oil, gas, and mining.

During the seminar, the Government of the Republic of Tajikistan made an official public statement of its intention to implement EIT1 in Tajikistan, which is the first of the five criteria for accession to the EIT1, as per the rules of the Initiative. The remaining four criteria include the following: 1) the Government's intention to work with all stakeholders, 2) the appointment of a person responsible for implementation, 3) putting together a working group of stakeholders. 4) drafting, approval and publication of a work plan to implement the initiative

Adherence to and implementation of EITI is crucial for Tajikistan's economic and social development. Recent reforms in the minerals sector have the potential of generating new investment. EITI may bring many benefits to Tajikistan: an improved investment climate, a signal to international investors that the government has a clear commitment to transparency and good governance, and strengthened accountability vis-avis the people of Tajikistan.

We are grateful to the Government of Tajikistan for the support of this seminar, the interest that was expressed in implementing the EITI in the country, and commitments to take on the necessary steps required for an official acceptance of Tajikistan as an EITI candidate.

The World Bank has strong experience in EITI implementation around the globe, providing technical assistance to EITI and supporting EITI dialogue in countries that are just considering becoming a part of the initiative. The World Bank stands ready to support EITI in Tajikistan in all activities related to the adoption of the EITI, as was stated during the seminar.

We highly appreciate the support from the Government of the Republic of Tajikistan in conducting of seminar and the important decisions reached regarding adherence to the EITI and hope for further cooperation in this regard.

Sincerely,

Saodat Bazarova Acting Country Manager World Bank Tajikistan Country Office Republic of Tajikistan

NEWS RELEASE

News Release

2011/07/ECA

Tajikistan holds a seminar on the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative

Dushanbe, July 12, 2011 – A Seminar organized by the World Bank Group in cooperation with the Open Society Institute (OSI) on the discussion of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI), took place in Dushanbe on July 12, 2011. The event was organized in close coordination with the Ministry of Finance and the State Committee on Investments and State Property Management and was formally opened by Mr. Asadullo Gulomov, the First Deputy Prime Minister of the Republic of Tajikistan. It has attracted participants from the government of Tajikistan, line ministries and agencies, other countries such as Mongolia and Kyrgyzstan, as well as international organizations and local civil society organizations.

The Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative, EITI, is the widely-accepted international framework for strengthening transparency and accountability in the extractives sector. It was launched in 2002, and is currently implemented in 35 countries across the globe. It is unique in terms of bringing together representatives from three different groups - private sector, civil society and Government - to work together, through the verification and full publication of company payments and government revenues from oil, gas, and mining.

Adherence to and implementation of EITI is crucial for Tajikistan's economic and social development. Recent mining reforms and mineral discoveries are likely to significantly expand the extractive sector in Tajikistan. Yet, these resources are not renewable and therefore need to be managed very carefully. In this context, EITI will bring many benefits to Tajikistan: an improved investment climate, a signal to international investors that the government has a clear commitment to transparency and good governance, and strengthened accountability vis-à-vis the people of Tajikistan.

In order to formally be accepted as an "EITI candidate" country, Tajikistan will have to fulfill a number of requirements, including a formal public announcement, a firm commitment to working with the civil society, establishment of a Multistakeholder group, appointment of an "EITI Champion" to pilot the initiative, and publication of a workplan.

EITI practitioners from the region – Azerbaijan, Mongolia, Kazakhstan and Kyrgyzstan – participated in the event. All rich in mineral resources, these countries have gained important experience in EITI implementation, including managing a Multistakeholder group, report scope and publication, and validation, and have come to share that experience with their counterparts in Tajikistan. Just last month, a 5-member delegation from Tajikistan traveled to Kyrgyz Republic to attend the Second EITI Global conference and learn from experience of neighboring countries that have been implementing the initiative. This exchange with other countries that are a part of EITI serves an important purpose of helping Tajikistan draw on their lessons.

The seminar covered information on the background of EITI, mining sector development in Tajikistan, EITI implementation experience from Azerbaijan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyz Republic, and Mongolia, and the particular roles that each stakeholder in the process (i.e. Government, private sector and civil society) plays in the implementation of the initiative.

The World Bank has strong experience in EITI implementation around the globe. Appointed as administrator of a Multidonor Trust Fund that has nearly US$50 million in contributions from 14 donors, the World Bank currently works in 50 countries worldwide to provide technical assistance to EITI and to support EITI dialogue in countries that are just considering becoming a part of the initiative. The particular role of the World Bank in EITI was covered during the event, which stands ready to support EITI in Tajikistan.

Announcement of the Government of the Republic of Tajikistan on Signing-Up to the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative

The Government of the Republic of Tajikistan, for the purpose of largerscale integration in the world economy, is consistently undertaking reforms in the priority industries with resulting significant improvements in the business environment and investment climate.

Inclusion of Tajikistan, for a second year in a row, in the top ten reformer countries was explained by the World Bank in the «Doing Business» report as follows: «In Tajikistan, in spite of all difficulties and effects of the global financial crisis, steady growth has been observed, with improvement of the people's wellbeing».

These positive changes have become possible due to the political will of the President of the Republic of Tajikistan, well-coordinated work of the government bodies and active participation of representatives from the civil society and private sector.

The reforms were aimed at improvement of business openness, streamlining of the regulatory approval system, better access to investments as well as improvement of tax administration and investors' protection.

There is a trend in the country towards development of better relationships between the governmental bodies, civil society and business community; and publicly voiced commitments of the government are stimulating competitive environment for business participants.

The legal framework of the mining sector is undergoing continuous improvements in order to provide and observe the rights and obligations of all process participants and align such rights and obligations with the international standards.

An important step in this direction should become the state policy aimed at accessibility of information on the natural resources as an important factor of the national economy growth and attracting investments.

The subsoil sector may become a driving force of our country's industrial development and attraction of significant investments.

The Government of Tajikistan shares and accepts the EITI principles and thinks that its implementation will contribute to better management of the extractive industries and more favourable investment climate for effective use of natural resources.

The Tajikistan Government hereby declares its firm commitment to the principles and letter of the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative proclaimed in October 2002 at the Global Summit for sustainable development, is willing to give full support to implementation thereof and intends to take important steps in order for Tajikistan to sign up to this global initiative.

The Government of the Republic of Tajikistan hereby confirms its willingness to cooperate with the civil society, international organisations and extractive companies within the EITI framework and invites them to cooperate in its implementation.

Press-release as of November 9, 2012 y.

Workshop on Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) and the eighth annual regional meeting of the global network of NGOs "Publish What You Pay" (PWYP)

On November 13, 2012, Branch Office of the International Organization of the "Open Society" Institute - Assistance Foundation in Tajikistan, in partnership with the World Bank, the German Society for International Cooperation (GIZ) and the Ministry of Finance of RT is conducting a seminar on the Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) for government officials, companies in the extractive industries and civil society organizations. The event is aimed at the prospects of EITI implementation in Tajikistan, as well as studying Azerbaijan, Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, and Mongolia experience on promoting extractive industries transparency initiatives in their countries.

The Extractive Industries Transparency Initiative (EITI) - is a widely accepted international standard that promotes revenue transparency in extractive industries. The initiative has three major components, namely, - efforts to ensure that all parties are benefiting from the extraction of natural resources, a coalition of governments, companies and civil society organizations, and the standard of publishing data on payment by companies and disclosure of data on revenues by governments . Thus, the EITI promotes governance in natural resources rich countries through the verification and publication of all data on company payments and governments' revenues, received from extraction of oil, gas and other mineral resources.

The Republic of Tajikistan began the process of joining the Initiative in June 2011. In August 2011, 21 civil society organizations expressed their commitment to the EITI and established a coalition of civil society organizations "Transparency for development." In order to prepare the country for this initiative, a working group from the relevant ministries, civil society and companies was established based on the order of the government. The developed set of documents, including a draft Government decree on the country's accession to the EITI, was approved on August 31, 2012.

One of the criteria for obtaining the status of "candidate" is a public statement of the government, which is expected at the upcoming seminar, including the expression of a strong commitment to working with civil society and the private sector. In addition, the opportunity will be given to learn about the experience of other countries, discuss the current state of affairs in Tajikistan and the next steps to join this initiative.

Tajikistan's joining to the EITI will enable improvement of the investment climate and raise the profile of country, which adheres to the transparency and accountability in income and effective spending. Besides, once Tajikistan becomes EITI member it will have good opportunities to increase the transparency of revenue in the state budget and control over its efficient use, attract foreign investment, create new jobs and additional sources of income for various strata of the population. Detailed information on EITI is available on the following web site: www.eiti.org

In the afternoon of the same day and on 14th of November, it is planned to hold the 8th Annual Regional Meeting on Publish What You Pay (PWYP), which will be attended by participants from 6 countries. During this working meeting, issues of closer regional cooperation between civil society representatives will be discussed to ensure the disclosure of data on income and contracts in the extractive industries. Also, the strategy of activity of this social network and issues related to activation participation of civil society at the national and international levels will be discussed to promote international EITI standards and "Open Government Partnership» (OGP). Issues on monitoring of the budget, social spending, local income and income from transit operations will be discussed during the sessions of the working meeting. According to the results of the working meeting, recommendations will be developed to improve the efficiency of activity in this global network *.

The beginning of this event: Seminar on EITI – 13th of November, at 9.00

PWYP Regional Meeting - 13th of November, at 14:00

The venue: Conference hall in Tajikistan hotel

The practice of civil society's participation in various government working groups.

Judicial and Legal Reform Programme

A government working group was set up in 2010 to produce a new judicial and legal reform for a period of three years. At our initiative, representatives of civil society and lawyers were brought into the working group. As a result, a programme was adopted in which many points had been put forward by representatives of civil society. At present, many international organizations and civil society work primarily in these areas (the new law on the legal profession, the new law on the Constitutional Court, the creation of family courts, several aspects of the juvenile judiciary, a more humane criminal code etc.)

Regulation on the Migration Service

At the beginning of 2011, an RT Government Decree created from scratch a Migration Service (hereafter, the MS) that was subordinate to the Government. (Previously, it had been a subdivision of the Interior Ministry but had been disbanded). Once the MS was set up, civil society was actively involved its development. The first draft document was drawn up by the MS itself and distributed to civil society and several public hearing about it were held. The outcome was the adoption of a document that took many recommendations from civil society into account.

UPR

In October 2011 Tajikistan reported back to the United Nations Human Rights Council on the UPR (Universal Periodic Review) procedure. A coalition was set up to draft an alternative report for the UN Human Rights Council, which, throughout the entire process of drafting the report, held consultations with the government working group on the main problems facing the country. As a result, the UPR was presented and, once the state had had time to deal with adopting the recommendations of UN member states, civil society was actively involved in the process of discussing them, facilitating the state's adoption of all the recommendations. Most recommendations were adopted as a result of this intervention. Certain points in the ratification of international documents were not achieved because of the lack of a clear vision and the need for documents.

Criminal Code Article on "Torture"

Following numerous national and international civil society campaigns against torture, the Government proposed that the country's Parliament adopt of an article on "Torture" for Tajikistan's Criminal Code. A preliminary draft was submitted to civil society for comment. The international experts who had been brought in gave their opinion as to whether the new article complied with the UN Convention Against Torture (Article 1). The article was duly amended and adopted by parliament as fully compliant with Article 1 of the Convention.

A more humane Criminal Code

A government working group for a more humane Criminal Code was set up in 2009 and is reviewing the provisions of the code. At our initiative, representatives of the legal profession were brought into the working group and are providing their view of the humanization of the Criminal Code. To date, a number of changes introducing lighter sentences for economic crimes have been introduced. A draft of the general part of a new Criminal Code has been drawn up and work to improve the special part is ongoing.

Changes to the Tax Code

Changes were made to the republic's Tax Code in 2011, in the part related to monthly remuneration of labour. This is determined by the relevant bodies in Tajikistan. Pursuant to these changes, all organizations, irrespective of their type of ownership, had to pay payroll taxes on the basis of the region's average monthly wage, including all types of contracted services. Public organizations also had to pay for contracted services on the basis of these new norms. This would have left many contractors out of work since the minimum remuneration for many contracts was far lower than the average monthly wage. Civil society came fairly rapidly on board, discussed the changes, prepared a case study and sent a letter to the Government. As a result, clarification was obtained from the Tax Committee that the said innovation did not apply to public organizations.

Citizen participation in the budget process

In 2011, the Local Self-Government Programme was able to put forward the idea that the RT Finance Ministry's Instruction on the formulation of local budgets should include a provision on ensuring local budget transparency and involving citizens in that process. Under the Instruction, local authorities are obliged when formulating their budgets to hold budget hearings in which the public may take part in order to ensure that the process of local budget formulation and adoption is transparent. In this connection, in June 2011, the programme set up a working group, involving representatives of state and public organizations, which set about producing a manual on holding public budget hearings in accordance with the RT Finance Ministry instruction. Pilot regions are currently studying and validating the manual.

Conclusion

Overall, civil society is very frequently involved in drafting specific documents that may change state policy on a particular human right. Particularly of late, the state authorities have become far more open to including representatives of civil society. For example, the new law on the legal profession is currently being drawn up, with the official participation of two representatives of civil society. In most cases, the proposals and comments of civil society are included in the final version of documents although some are not included when the Government adopts the documents. The arrangements for civil society participation are fairly clear cut but insufficient decision-making authority sometimes prevents results being fully achieved.

The state does not put particular pressure on civil society. Civil society is making fairly active use of the mechanisms for taking part in the legal and political life of the country except where matters are linked to terrorism or extremism to which there is almost no access.

Case study of the freedom of Public Organizations in the Republic of Tajikistan to perform their statutory activities

The legislation of the Republic of Tajikistan on public associations, which takes the Constitution of the Republic of Tajikistan as its basis and consists of the Republic of Tajikistan Law "On public associations" No. 258 of 12 May 2007, as well as other regulatory legal acts of the Republic or Tajikistan and international regulatory legal acts recognized by Tajikistan, clearly and unequivocally establishes the following fundamental factors in the creation and operation of public associations in the Republic of Tajikistan:

- 1) A public association is a voluntary, self-governing, not-for-profit association of individuals who have come together on the basis of their common interests to pursue the objectives set out in the public association's charter. (Article 5)
- 2) Any citizen has the right independently to establish voluntary public associations to protect common interests and achieve common objectives without prior permission from the state authorities and to join existing public associations on condition of compliance with the provisions of their charters or to refrain from so joining, as well as to leaving these associations without hindrance. (Article 4)
- 3) The activities of a public association are based on the principles of voluntary participation, equality, self-government and lawfulness. A public association is free to determine its own internal structure, its goals and the forms and methods of its activities. (Article 13)
- 4) The activities of a public association must be open to the public and information about their founding documents and manifestoes must be accessible to the public. (Article 13)
- 5) The structure and activities of a public association must conform to democratic norms. The activities of a public association shall not violate or restrict the human and civil rights and freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution of the Republic of Tajikistan. (Article 13)
- 6) The creation and activities of public associations, promoting racial, ethnic, social or religious hatred or calling for the violent overthrow of constitutional order or the organization of armed groups are prohibited. (Article 14)
- The creation and activities of public associations encroaching upon citizens' rights and legitimate freedoms or posing a threat to people's health or public morality are prohibited. (Article 14)

8) The state authorities and their officials are prohibited from interfering in the activities of public associations. (Article 15)

- 9) Issues affecting the interests of public associations in circumstances prescribed by law shall be dealt with by state and government authorities with the participation of the relevant public associations or with their agreement. (Article 15)
- 10) Employed members of staff of public associations are covered by the labour and social insurance legislation of the Republic of Tajikistan. (Article 15)
- 11) Public associations have the right to submit proposals to the state authorities and to take part in drafting the decisions of state authorities, to receive information from the state authorities enabling them to perform their statutory duties, to propose initiatives on various aspects of the life of society, to represent and defend their own rights and the legitimate interests of their members or participants and those of other citizens in the state authorities, organizations, public associations and the courts. (Article 24)

- 12) Pursuant to their charters, public associations in the Republic of Tajikistan may join international public organizations, acquire rights and accept obligations appropriate to the status of those international public organizations, maintain direct international contacts and relations and enter into agreements with foreign public (non-for-profit and non-governmental) organizations. (Article 38)
- 13) Public associations of the Republic of Tajikistan may set up their own organizations, subsidiaries and representative offices in foreign states on the basis of international legal acts, recognized by Tajikistan and the legislation of these states. (Article 38)
- 14) Public (non-for-profit and non-governmental) organizations of foreign states or their subsidiaries and representative offices on the territory of the Republic of Tajikistan conduct their activities there in accordance with the laws of the Republic of Tajikistan. (Article 38)

At the same time, the legislators of the Republic of Tajikistan have very clearly defined the obligations of a public association (Article 25):

- 1) To comply with the Constitution of the Republic of Tajikistan and other regulatory legal acts of the Republic of Tajikistan, and international regulatory legal acts recognized by Tajikistan and the provisions laid down by its charter;
- 2) By 1 April each year to provide the registration authority with information about the continuation of its statutory activities, indicating the current location of its governing body and its name, and information about the leaders of the public association;
- 3) To submit the decisions of the public association's governing bodies and officials and information about its activities as requested by the registration authority;
- 4) To give representatives of the registration authority access to mass events being held by the public association;
- 5) To assist representatives of the registration authority familiarize themselves with the activities of the public association linked to achieving its statutory goals and complying with the legislation of the Republic of Tajikistan.

The activities of a public association may, therefore, be suspended in the following circumstances:

- 1) If the public association violates human and civil rights and freedoms;
- If the public association violates the Constitution of the Republic of Tajikistan or the constitutional laws, laws and other regulatory legal acts of the Republic of Tajikistan or if the public association systematically engages in activities that run counter to its statutory goals;
- 3) Failure to submit information on the continuation of its statutory activities, indicating the current location of its governing body and its name, and information on the leaders of the public association by the required deadline (before 1 April every year);
- 4) If a state of emergency is declared in the Republic of Tajikistan.

Suspension of the activities of a public association, except when a state of emergency has been declared in the Republic of Tajikistan, and the dissolution of a public association are possible only if a court so decides (Article 35) in order to satisfy a petition to that effect from the Prosecutor-General of the Republic of Tajikistan or prosecutors subordinate to him, or from the registration authority – the Justice Ministry of the Republic of Tajikistan. (Article 35)

At the same time, as a preliminary, in the event that a public organization is found to have violated provisions of the Constitution of the Republic of Tajikistan or the legislation of the Republic of Tajikistan, including the law "On public associations", and/or performed actions that run counter to its statutory goals, the Prosecutor-General of the Republic of Tajikistan or prosecutors subordinate to him are obliged to submit an instruction in writing to the governing body of the public organization to take immediate remedial action and a written warning to the registration body, the Justice Ministry of the Republic of Tajikistan, and to set a timeframe for the violations to be remedied. (Article 35)

If, within the set period of suspension, the public association remedies the violation that led to its activities being suspended, the public association resumes its activities as decided by the court that suspended its activities. (Article 36)

Therefore, having analysed the legislative bases for the activities of public associations in the Republic of Tajikistan and on the basis of practical experience of monitoring the activities of public associations in the Republic of Tajikistan, it must be noted that public associations are free to carry out their activities within the legal environment of the Republic of Tajikistan, are independent of representatives of the state authorities and local government and have an active role in reforming the system of state administration and legislation and are making an invaluable contribution to developing our country's democratic principles of existence.
